The amendments, as proposed in the analysis, specify that, for funds held in a loss draft account as of the bill's effective date, the required interest must accrue beginning on the effective date of the bill. The amendments also specify that the bill's provisions do not apply to hazard insurance proceeds held in a loss draft account that are required by a state or federal regulatory authority to be placed by a financial institution other than a bank in a non-interest-bearing demand trust fund account of a bank, and that the hazard insurance proceeds may be deposited in an interest-bearing account in a federally insured depository institution, a federal home loan bank, a federal reserve bank, or another similar government sponsored enterprise. Amendments also add a co-author. |
